The Campanini Concert. An audience of prominent people com-fortably filled the Congregational Church last night to hear the second Campanini concert, with the addition of Mme. concert, with the addition of Mine. Etelka Gerster, in whom the interest appeared to centre. She was given an ovation, and, although 'her voice is not what it used to be," no one would have thought so by the applause she received. Not less popular was Mine. Scalchi, of whose magnificent contraito none ever lires. Signorina Torricelli's violin playing also won for her an encore, and would have won more, but the artists were chary of their favors. Campanini was in good voice and Corsini and Galasses had their full share of the honors, with a string of compliments for the excellent accompaniments given by Mr. Gore. Among those present were Mrs. Cieveland and Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Governor Gordon of Georgia, Mrs. Frank Gordon, Mrs. Muldrow, Miss West, Miss Van Buren, Miss Ethel Sprague, Miss Ethel Ingalls, the Misses Lyons, Miss Noyes, Congressman Morrow and daughter, Major West, proprieter of the Chicago Thuce, and Colonel Pat Donan of the United States.

The G. A. R. Fair. Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman was present at the Grand Army Fair last night and made a suppestion that a night be set apart for the District ministers. The interest in the art gallery will be further enhanced to-night by the addition of a newly-fin-ished bust of General Logan by Flannery, and a bust of General Custer by Mrs. Hedeliman. To night will be known as "Executive and Congressional night," and there will be a large attendance. So far the success of the fair has been very gratifying.

THE MATTER LAID OVER.

The Citizens' Committee Postpones Its Important Discussion. The understanding that the proposed change in the form of local governmen would be discussed attracted an attend-ance much larger than usual to the meetance much larger than usual to the meeting of the Citisens' Representative Committee last night. The progress of the resolution met a severe set back in a report submitted by Mr. Jesse B. Wilson, one of the committee that had reported the proposed scheme. Mr. Wilson opposed the change, and from an eighteen-paged pamphler read an exhaustive discussion of the subject.

the change, and from an eighteen-paged pamphiet read an exhaustive discussion of the subject.

Mr. Wilson admitted that there were grave defects in many of the laws governing the District, but he found the remedy not in overthrowing the government, but in securing the requisite legislation.

Mr. Wilson also held that Congress could not delegate to any body a right to legislate for the District. The proposed government would represent no one and could have laws no power. He believed that the great body of the people favored the present form of government, which he believed to be the best ever established.

When Mr. Wilson had concluded President Fendall took the floor, calling Mr. Mills bean to preside. Reports from the various associations were called. Associations Nos. 2, 3, 5, 7 and 0 had indorsed the proposed change. Mr. Fendall thought that as all the associations had not acted on the matter it had better be laid over, which was done.

Eulogistic resolutions in memory of W. W. Corcoran were then adopted.
